MILDURA'S CITY ENGINEER

Upland Hosts 'Sister City' Visitor

By PATRICIA REID
Of The News Staff

Members of the Upland Town Affiliation Association spent the week hosting the first city official to visit the city from the sister City of Mildura, Australia.

Mildura's City Engineer Alexander Thomson arrived in Upland last Friday night and left Tuesday for a trip to Los Angeles, (with a stopover at Disneyland, he said).

A public dinner was held in his honor Monday night at Brighams Restaurant and an open house and reception was held Easter Sunday afternoon at the Chaffey Communities Cultural Center Museum.

Thomson, who has been Mildura's city engineer for 17 years and in the municipal engineering field for 20 years, won a foundation grant from an engineering foundation in Victoria, Australia to be a research fellow for 1973. He said this honor was bestowed on him because of his thesis on "Management and Local Government." Thomson is the first person to tackle an administrative subject -- such as city management -- other research fellows have studied more practical subjects such as refuse collection, he said.

Thomson spent time in Sacramento, San Francisco, Fresno, Upland and Los Angeles while in Southern California. This visit was his first to the West Coast. He said he chose to come to Upland because of the Sister City Affiliation and also to get a look at smaller governmental operations. He said Mildura, with a population of 15,000 is about the size of Upland 15 years ago.

He leaves for London today to attend a 10 week course on management for senior local government officers at the University of Birmingham, England at the Institute of Local Government Studies. Thomson remarked that Britain was going to a great amount of work in restructuring of local governments. He will visit The Hague in Holland and also Copenhagen, Denmark (where they've reduced the number of local governments from 14,000 to 329). Thomson will also spend time in Cologne, Germany at the Union of German Cities and Towns. While in Europe he plans to stop by his native country of Scotland.

An interesting sidelight to Thomson's trip is that he left Mildura on Friday, the 13th of April and plans to return home of Friday, the 13th of July! "I'm not superstitious," he said.

Thomson said, "Local government is on the verge of great change -- at least in Australia." He spent time with Upland's city engineer and city manager to gain a better understanding of the administrative structure of local government.

During his stay in the area, he stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brandt, who met him in Mildura last year. Mildura councilman Michael Jobson and his wife are expected to visit Upland in June.

Chicano Culture Week At Chaffey

The fourth annual week of chicano culture, Semana de la Raza IV, is scheduled for April 30 through May 4 at Chaffey College.

Among the features will be an address by an eminent chicano spokesman, mariachi music and Mexican dances.

This special week is presented for public participation by the campus chapter of Movimiento Estudiantil de Aztlan (MEChA) in cooperation with the Chaffey Community College District.

The program will open April 30 with ranchero music by Los Tilines, a trio of mariachis, between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. in the Campus Center Cafeteria. Walter Gomez, Pomona, is the leader of Los Tilines.

On the same stage that day at 12 noon, the coronation of the Semana de la Raza queen will be conducted by James Vigil, assistant professor of chicano history at Chaffey College.

Candidates for the title are Susan Bernal, Fontana; Flora Herrera, Anna Rodriguez and Stella Vargas, all of Ontario; and Hortencia Martinez and sisters Isabelle and Minga Lara, all of Upland. La reina contest coordinator is Carmen Bernal, sister of one of the candidates.

A student group of eight couples from San Bernardino Valley College, El Folklorico del Valley, will perform from 11 a.m. until 12 noon, May 1, in the cafeteria. The group specializes in regional Mexican dances -- La Negra, Jalisco, Nortenos and La Bamba.

Highlighting May 2 activities, 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., will be Ballet Folklorico Infantil, five dancers from Cucamonga Elementary School under the direction of Mrs. Virginia Trebizo. This event will be staged also in the cafeteria.

The guest speaker of the week will be Carlos Munoz, professor of chicano studies at UCI, 11 a.m. - 12 noon May 3 in the Free Speech Area. Dr. Munoz, considered a founder of MEChA in the Southwest, will address his audience on "Where the Chicano Movement is Now."

This speaker also helped pioneer the organization of La Raza Unida as a chicano political force in the North American Southwest. He is the author of "The Politics of Chicano Urban Protest," now nearing publication.

Las Aguas Calientes, a band from Los Angeles, will offer progressive Latin jazz, 11 a.m. - 12 noon and 1-2 p.m., May 4, in the Student Lounge. The name of the group means "hot water." In Spanish, the band was booked to warm up participants for Cinco de Mayo (the Fifth of May) in the barrios which falls this year on a Saturday.

Bikeways System Talks Postponed

Although county Supervisor Daniel Mikesell was present at the April 16 Board meeting when the proposed 128-mile bikeway plan for San Bernardino Valley was considered, he again postponed discussion of the extensive Bikeways System until May 7 at 11 a.m.

Mikesell has been the chief skeptic of the plans which have been drawn up by the County Regional Parks Department. He said he still wants more time for review of the suggested West Valley routes.

On March 26, when the issue was first discussed among the supervisors, Mikesell said he was mainly concerned about the safety of some of the roadways chosen for trails.

A petition signed by some 700 Chaffey College students and Alta Loma residents -- stressing the need for a bike trails system -- was submitted to Mikesell.

Upland's Hot Asphalt Plant Heads For Court

Bus Line To Begin Here May 21

City officials of Upland and Ontario now are shooting for a May 21 target date as a time for starting the bus line linking Ontario and Upland.

Ontario assistant City Manager Robert D. Hughbanks said last week that the way for operation of the bus line to begin has been cleared with the approval of the Southern California Rapid Transit District (RTD) board of an agreement under which the RTD will provide the bus service.

The agreement now will be forwarded to both cities, to be signed by Ontario Mayor Howard J. Snider and Upland Mayor Abner B. Haldeman.

The bus line will be subsidized by the two cities at an estimated $3,212 net cost per month with funds to be obtained from the state sales tax on gasoline.

The line will connect south Ontario, downtown Ontario, government offices on Mountain Ave. in Ontario, Upland and medical offices around San Antonio Community Hospital in Upland.

Upland High Band Off To Hawaii

This week's trip to Hawaii for members of the Upland High School Band marks the culmination of some five months of fund-raising, working, (picture on page 3) and planning. Approximately 186 band members planned to make the trip and most students earned their own way.

The Highlanders band was invited by the Performing Arts Abroad organization in December to appear in the Hawaiian Festival of Music. The band is attending the April 23-30 session of the festival -- there are several other sessions scheduled also.

Students will be staying at the Moana Hotel in Waikiki, Oahu and will practice or perform some five hours each day of their stay. They have five concerts and two rehearsals scheduled.

The chief Upland building official will appear in court Friday to explain the city's position in refusing to issue a permit for construction of a hot mix asphalt plant in northwest Upland.

The court appearance was ordered in a county Superior Court Alternative Writ of Mandate filed April 16. The writ ordered Robert Sullivan, Upland building department head, to immediately issue a building permit for the plant or appear in San Bernardino Superior Court 9:30 a.m. Friday to show cause why the permit should not be granted.

Sullivan and city attorney Donald Maroney have said the city will not issue the permit and will let the court decide the fate of the requested building permit.

The court order was issued by Superior Court Judge J. Steve Williams at the request of attorneys for The Flintkote Company, listed on the writ as a Massachusetts corporation. Flintkote has presented final plans and has requested a building permit for the plant, which will produce asphalt for road construction.

The plant is planned for a site one-half mile west of Benson Ave. and one-half mile south of 16th St., Upland. The plant is proposed for construction adjacent to the Associated Rock Products operation, located north of Cable Airport.

Associated Rock obtained a conditional use permit for the plant in 1967 and the city council has extended the permit each year since 1967. But in recent years Flintkote has purchased Associated Rock and, according to an Upland city ordinance, the new owner must reapply for a new conditional use permit.

The writ will serve as a test of the legality of that ordinance.

An application for a new conditional use permit will require additional public hearings on the hot mix plant proposal.

Upland Girl Named To Girls State

Paula Gary has been selected to represent Upland High School at Girls State. The announcement was made by Mrs. Leslie B. Harrison, girls' state chairman, American Legion Auxiliary, Upland Unit 73.

Miss Gary is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Gary, Upland. She is secretary of the girls athletic association and the Highland Mountaineers. Miss Gary has also been a member of the Girl Scouts for nine years.

Progress has been made on the new Upland post office planned for the northeast corner of Third Ave. and Arrow Hwy. The U. S. Post Office had the four existing houses demolished -- clearing the ground for construction.

Upland Postmaster Chuck Welch said the plans for a new enlarged building have been in the works for some four years. It's planned that weeds will be cleared on the property in the near future. Welch didn't have any information on when the groundbreaking and construction would take place. He did say that on July 1 the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, which has been handling plans for the new 31,000 square foot building, will no longer oversee the plans -- at that time the architectural plan responsibility will be turned back to the U. S. Postal Department.

It was reported recently by Les Hood, public information director of the Sacramento office of the Corps of Engineers, that John F. Hill, chief architect for L. W. Davidson and Associates, who had worked on the plans, had his contract suddenly terminated.

Hill blamed conflict of responsibility problems between the postal department and corps of engineers with causing communications problems which impeded the development of plans.

Hill said his scheduling indicated bids should go out July 1 and the post office should be completed by February, 1974. The building will cost an estimated $91,000.

Hood said, "The design, construction and completion of the post office will not suffer" due to the sudden cancellation of the contract. Hood continued, "The final plans will continue in-house by the Corps of Engineers."

Hood estimated that the completed plans should be sent to the postal department in late June. "It should then be completed 300 days later," he remarked.

CLOCK TURNING TIME -- Karen Lindsey, of Upland, reminds one and all to turn their clocks to mark the beginning of daylight savings time which begins at 2 a.m. April 29.

IN UPLAND

In Search Of The 'Simple Life'

By PATRICIA REID

There's some indescribable, magical quality about small, friendly eating "joints" that attracts people like magnets--again and again.

It's not uncommon for smaller towns to have small coffee shops where residents spend a good part of each day, talking to neighbors. In Upland, such a familiar site is the "Donut Shop" in the Town Center.

Unpretentious on the outside, almost unnoticed tucked away between other larger businesses on 2nd Ave., everyone whose been around town awhile has visited there--a majority of long time residents go more than once a day!

"More business is done over this counter than is done in the offices!" joked waitresses Naomi Baker. Like the general atmosphere of the shop, Mrs. Baker has been there a long time--a mere 20 years she said. Throwing out the question "How long has this place been here?" I got a lot of different answers by the locals who were sitting at the counter. Guess-estimates ranged from 45 years to 30 years! Suffice it to say, most people can't remember a time when the Donut Shop wasn't operating in the Town Center!

As the character of the town has changed and modernized the shop has remained a stable force in the community. Uniqueness, friendliness, familiarity and personalized service are probably the main ingredients which make up the long standing popularity of the tiny shop. "A lot of people seek out smaller places off the beaten path," commented shop owner Lorn Polster. It seems to hold true for the Donut Shop--it's always got a counter-full of people and this tradition hasn't been broken by the threat of competition from many newer, fast-service type restaurant establishments that have sprung up.

Lorn and Carmen Polster of Ontario have run the shop for 12 years--the shop has changed hands a few times. Charlotte Brest and Ruby Greer, two Upland housewives, are said to have originally started the shop many years back.

The Polsters have been in the coffee shop-short order cooking business a number of years. They formerly ran the soda fountain connected with Gemmel's Pharmacy in Ontario. Miss Polster said Gemmel's had the same familiar, friendly flavor as the Donut Shop does.

Donut-making has always been a significant part of the shop's business--as you'd expect the name. An old-looking sign above the "mug-display box" has to do with donuts. It wisely admonishes:

As you ramble on thru Life, Brother, whatever be your goal, Keep your eye on the Doughnut-- And not on the Hole!

The exact meaning of that profound bit of wisdom is rather vague, but, nevertheless--if time means anything--it's been mellowed by age.

Donut making by hand and from scratch at the crack of dawn is another one of those special things that makes the shop so unique. As long as can be remembered, donuts have been made in front of the store window at 6 a.m. so that early risers can be tempted to come in and have some--which they certainly do!

The shop had had a variety of Donut Makers, for the past four years Deloris Billington has had the privilege. Miss Billington tells about the little "kid-dos" that watch with interest at her donut making as they walk to school every morning. By 11:00 a.m. or so--most of the homemade donuts are gone. A lot of merchants and sales people stop by for morning breaks, to read the newspaper, or to make a business deal. Specially decorated donuts are made for holidays and special orders.

During its first years of existence, the shop featured only donuts and coffee. However, now the menu has expanded to include hot and cold sandwiches and luncheon meals as well. The hours of business are from "when the light is on in the morning" (usually about 7:00 a.m.) until 4:00 p.m.

The "mug-display-box" is another special "thing" about the place. Regulars over the years have bought coffee mugs and had them hand-painted with characteristic pictures and their names to hold a place of honor in the shop's mug box--which is proudly displayed all across the wall.

There's probably 50 or so attractively painted and personalized mugs in the box. Beneath each mug is painted the name of its owner. This tradition goes back so far that many newer "comers" to the shop don't know who the mugs belong to. The city manager, fire chief, police chief and other city officials each have mugs, as well as a good number of store-owners in the center.

Miss Polster said there haven't been any new mugs added for quite awhile because of a lack of artist and kiln to do the work. Uplander Topsy Schultz is responsible for painting the mugs. There's a chance that she'll return to making a few more mugs in the near future.

"Oftentimes we don't get mugs washed and back up on the shelf before the owners are back for refills," exclaimed Miss Polster. Many mugs have funnies painted on them and nicknames. Atwoods Department Store has three mugs and also a special one for "guests".

YE OLD DONUT SHOPPE -- for merchants and locals of Upland Town Center, a once or twice a day visit to The Donut Shop, 228 N. 2nd Ave., is a ritual. A quaint gingerbread display box holds gaily decorated and personalized coffee mugs for the regular customers.

Recount Confirms New Trustee

A recount of ballots cast in the Upland School District Board of Trustees election last week revealed that the margin of victory was greater than originally believed between candidates Irwin J. Schneekloth and Mrs. Sara Sue Vest.

Supporters of Mrs. Vest, led by her campaign managers Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sheffield, drew up a petition calling for a recount of ballots. The recount took place Monday in the San Bernardino office of William H. Clinton, county registrar of voters. Mrs. Marilyn Watson of that office reported that the recount showed Schneekloth with 1,108 votes compared to Mrs. Vest's 1,135. This is victory by 33 votes rather than only by 18 votes as originally thought.

Community History

WASHINGTON
Last Wednesday, April 3, the U. S. Senate sustained President Nixon's veto of S. 7, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act Amendments. Objections to the bill were based on the President's insistence to keep spending down. As you know, I have shared the President's concern for irresponsible appropriations. However, the need for strong vocational rehabilitation programs is a vital one and I feel we must continue our efforts to upgrade and expand services responsive to the needs of our handicapped.

Therefore, I have joined with several of my colleagues in cosponsoring a new Vocational Rehabilitation Bill which is aimed at continuing and improving our assistance to the handicapped by providing for orderly expansion of the Vocational Rehabilitation Program.

This bill provides for a three-year authorization -- $775 million for Fiscal Year 1974, $840 million for Fiscal Year 1975, and $874 million for Fiscal Year 1976.

The commission is made up of public representatives, special representatives and legislative representatives.

HAWAII BOUND -- Excited members of the Upland High Highlanders Band piled on buses Monday morn for their week long concert tour in Hawaii. The musicians will participate in the Hawaiian Festival of Music and will be back home Monday afternoon.

Bikes Now Permitted In Town Center

The Upland City Council ruled recently to disregard the "no bikes" regulation and also the "5 miles per hour" speed rule in the town center.

Upland Town Center Promotional Association had originally requested the two changes--also that "No Bicycle Riding on Sidewalk" be painted on sidewalks at entry points to the Town Center. Merchants feel that bicycles are being used more as a mode of transportation.

The Council agreed that speed samplings should be made and the situation is currently under study.

DOWN ON THE FARM -- The We Five entertain in Knott's Berry Farm's John Wayne Theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 27-29. The group specializes in a harmonized blend of soft rock sounds. Knott's Berry Farm is located on Beach Blvd. in Buena Park just two miles south of the Santa Ana Freeway.

'We Five' Headline At Knott's

We Five, a well-known soft rock musical group, headline Knott's Berry Farm's John Wayne Theatre entertainment scheduled this weekend (April 27-29).

The five-member group will perform three days, Friday through Sunday, in the ultra-modern 2,150-seat indoor theatre.

The We Five popped into stardom in the late 1960s with a million-selling record entitled "You Were On My Mind." That was followed by an album called "Catch The Wind," also a very big seller.

The latest record release for the group is "Rejoice," a warm-sounding soft rock tune typical of the group's fluid harmony.

The We Five, by today's standards, is a unique musical group as they are able to perform all types of music from rock to country to ballads.

They receive great pleasure from making their music work with as well as for their audience.

Performances for the We Five are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday (April 27), Saturday (April 28) at 4:30, 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., and Sunday (April 29) at 3, 5 and 7 p.m.

Also a part of Knott's weekend round-up of live entertainment will be country music groups in the Wagon Camp Saturday and Sunday afternoons and mariachi music in Fiesta Village.

Knott's Berry Farm is located on Beach Boulevard in Buena Park just two miles south of the Santa Ana Freeway.

Stan Kenton In Concert May 25-27

Stan Kenton, his big band, Leon Breedon, Bill Fritz and Herb Patenoe, will be in Riverside Memorial weekend to lead a "Jazz Orchestra in Residence" workshop and perform two public concerts. Both programs are sponsored by University of California Extension, Riverside.

For further information or to enroll, contact University of California Extension, Riverside, 92502 or phone (714) 787-4105.

Hitchcock Thriller At Valley Theatre

Valley Community Theatre, 132 East Third St., (upstairs) Pomona, will open the sixth production of the 1972-73 season with an Alfred Hitchcock thriller, "Rope," Thursday, April 26, at 8:30 p.m. The traditional champagne party for cast/crowd/audience will follow the performance. The production will run the following five Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30. For reservations call 622-6954.

"Rope," by Patrick Hamilton, is a suspense drama of the genre made popular by Alfred Hitchcock. It was first produced on stage in 1929 with the Hitchcock screen treatment following in the late fifties.

VCT's production is directed by Ed Abry, a drama instructor at Baldwin Park High School. Abry appeared as Geoffrey in VCT's 1972 production of "The Lion in Winter." He holds a Masters Degree from Michigan State University and is a VCT Board of Directors member.

Abry, who "always wanted to be a baseball player for the Yankees," but who now spends his spare time performing and directing amateur theatre, has directed "The Miracle Worker," "The Crucible," "Teahouse of the August Moon," "The Impossible Years" and "The Skin of our Teeth." He appeared professionally at the Gateway Playhouse in New York and at the Enchanted Hills Playhouse in Indiana. This is his first directorial assignment at VCT.

Gregg Hill appears as Brandon, Hill most recently appeared at the School of the Performing Arts, San Diego, in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Locally he appeared in "The Road of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd" at the School of Theology in Claremont and in VCT's "The Lion in Winter" (as Richard the Lionheart).

Bruce Wilkinson plays Rupert. Wilkinson appeared in the Gallery Theatre production of "I Remember Mama" as Papa. He has also worked for the Garrick Players in "Charley's Aunt," and Chaffey College Drama Department in "The Rainmaker."

Burke Van Gilder plays Granillo. Van Gilder has appeared at the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco and the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York City, in such plays as "The Madwoman of Chaillot" and "Brigadoon." This is his first appearance on the VCT stage.

Harold Goodell, who just completed a part in the VCT production of "Little Mary Sunshine," Beth Fullerton and Virginia Lind, who appeared in VCT's production of "Lillies of the Field," and Grayson Cook and Mike Ross, whose last performances in Pomona were in VCT's "Carousel," fill out the cast. Assistant Director and Secretary for the production is Sharon Erickson, Production Coordinator is Gordon White, Stage Manager is David Spencer, Production art is by Martha Palmer Fuller, Property Mistress is Marilyn Fielder, The set, designed by Diana Eyre, was built by the company.

Theatre parties are welcome, and group rates are available. For further information call Mack Gilliland, 622-6954.

No Generation Gap With California Wine

That's right, there is no generation gap with California wine. In fact, America's young adults are proving to be some of California wines' biggest fans.

One way they are showing this is at a series of wine tastings held for groups of young adults throughout the United States. These tastings, hosted by the Wine Growers of California, give these groups a chance to compare a series of California wines with a series of European wines costing at least twice as much. These tastings are done "blind" without the tasters knowing which wine is which until it is all over and the tasters' preferences have been tabulated.

So far, the results have shown that young adult groups prefer California wines almost six to one over the wines from across the sea. This is good news for California's vintners and for the tasters, too, who now know they can trust their tastes because they are choosing the wines that are consistently better made, more reliable and of better value. The tasters also know now that California wines are made to suit American tastes and to be enjoyed in their own country.

California's vintners are feeling like a bunch of star athletes these days -- they keep setting records all the time. The people in the wine industry who keep track of statistics have just confirmed that California's winemakers have set another record -- their seventh consecutive year for wines shipped to market. Last year the state's vintners sent nearly 239 million gallons of wine to the marketplace, a gain of almost 13 million gallons over 1971.

Table wines led the way with sales of almost 156 million gallons in 1972, an increase of 18 million gallons over the 1971 table wine figure -- strong proof of California table wines increasing popularity with the American consumer.

Ever try a wineburger? It's easy to make, and it's very good. All you need to do is mix in some red wine with the hamburger meat -- a quarter of a cup of wine to a pound of hamburger is about right. And, when you are frying the burger, pour a little wine over the sizzling meat, flip the burger when ready, and pour a little more wine on the other side. The flavor of the wine will come through turning an ordinary hamburger into a gourmet delight.

Any good red wine will do -- try any of the many red wines from California. Be sure to have a glass or two with your wineburger. You will find it a delightful companion to your meal.

The Wine Institute -- the California wine industry's trade association -- has won a special prize for its excellent work in telling the public about the health values of wine. The Institute was given the award by the Centre International de Liaison des Organismes de Propaganda en faveur des Produits de la Vigne, the worldwide wine information organization based in Paris, France.

In announcing the prize, the Centre International cited the Institute's work with the International Symposium on Wine and Health, the printed proceedings of the Symposium and the publication of the papers presented by nine wine and health authorities who participated in the Symposium. The Centre noted that the Institute's public relations work on wine and health included telling about wine's use as a tranquilizer; the dietary and other values of its more than 300 constituents; and the increasing number of hospitals and nursing homes that serve wine to patients.

If you ever have to go to the hospital, ask for wine with your meals. Since studies show wine will make your hospital stay more pleasant, you are likely to be given wine, and it's likely your doctor will be a wine enthusiast, too.

Wine is fine with salad. We can thank the brave souls who proved this point by trying wine with their salads and finding that they liked it; thereby throwing the antiquated rule that wine should not be served with salads on the trash heap.

These wine and salad pioneers found that wine goes very well indeed with salad when a good creamy Roquefort, blue cheese or Thousand Island dressing is used. Crab Louis -- which is a salad -- served with French bread and white wine is a year-round favorite. There is one exception though. Don't serve wine when you are using a sharp vinegar dressing. The experts that study taste perceptions tell us that the sharpness of acetic acid found in vinegar dulls the taste buds temporarily so that it is impossible to detect the true taste of wine for several minutes.

That's why vinegar and wine have long been considered enemies -- although the world's best vinegars are made from wine. One obvious solution to this conflict is to enjoy the wine with the main course of the meal and serve the tossed greens afterward.

Sandwich Time--Serve Forth The Sardines

Norway sardines are an inspiration to the many of us who are looking for low-cost, nutritious and appealing ideas to serve our families. Easily stored on any kitchen shelf, sardines provide an economical source of protein and calcium with a smoky flavor that's hard to resist.

Here's a quick and easy salad sandwich recipe that's a marvelous mixture of flavors and textures: quartered cherry tomatoes for color, chopped green pepper and celery for crunch.

Sardine Salad/Sandwich Combo

1 cup quartered cherry tomatoes
1/2 cup diced green pepper
1/2 cup sliced green onion
1/2 cup sliced celery
1 can (3 3/4 ounces) Norway sardines, drained
Oil and vinegar dressing
Chopped parsley
Combine vegetables in a salad bowl. Break sardines into bite-sized pieces over vegetables. Toss salad lightly with oil and vinegar dressing (bottled or homemade). Garnish with chopped parsley.
Makes 4 servings.

Egg Prices Expected To Drop Slightly

With meat prices setting new records, consumers can expect at least one form of protein to be cheaper: Eggs.

Dr. Milo Swanson, University of California poultry specialist, says that even though eggs are about 20 cents a dozen higher than at this time last year, they still represent high-quality protein at 50 cents a pound or less.

The Extension agriculturist at UCR said egg prices traditionally build to a peak at Easter. Then, like Humpty Dumpty, they fall off and remain lower during the summer. In autumn egg prices trend upward again.

This year, however, he doesn't expect a great price drop in eggs after Easter because of high meat prices and reduced egg production. The real drop--perhaps five or six cents a dozen--will come probably a year from now. "Eggs went up in price for two reasons," said Dr. Swanson, "First, greater demand because of the meat situation; second, a smaller supply largely resulting from the Newcastle disease epidemic that took one-third of southern California's layers out of production plus a history of low returns on investments over the past several years.

"The Newcastle eradication effort actually destroyed more than 11,000,000 birds. Some of these were not in the laying stage; others were in flocks destroyed two or more times. The net result was about 8,500,000 fewer layers, or 21 per cent of California's producing hens."

He pointed out that the economics of egg production have been so poor for growers recently that "in four out of the past six years growers were subsidizing consumers. These were loss years for the egg industry. The new, higher prices will encourage some growth of the industry, but the effect won't be felt for nine to 12 months."

Bids Open For Expressway

Another in the series of San Bernardino Freeway Express Busway projects in Los Angeles County is being advertised for bids by the California Division of Highways.

Santa Anita Ave. will be widened at its junction with the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate 10), to provide adequate access for feeder buses and automobiles to the Southern California Rapid Transit District's El Monte station parking lot.

Now 56 feet wide, the avenue will be widened to 84 feet for the approximate quarter-mile from Ramona Blvd. to Asher St. Traffic signal and highway lighting systems will be installed as part of the project.

The busway is now operating for the seven miles between Santa Anita Ave. in El Monte and the Long Beach Freeway. An additional four-mile segment, which will extend service to Mission Rd. in Los Angeles, is scheduled for completion in May of 1974.

Bids on the newly advertised project will be opened May 17 in Los Angeles. A total of $480,000 is available for the project.

The Division is also calling for bids on a Pomona Freeway widening (Route 60) project in Los Angeles (L. A. County).

An additional lane will be provided for westbound traffic through reconstructing shoulders and restriping between the Santa Ana Freeway (Interstate 5) and Whittier Blvd.

The revision will provide three 11-foot and two 10.5-foot lanes, plus an eight-foot shoulder to the right of the traffic lanes.

Bids will be opened May 17 in Los Angeles. A total of $420,000 is available for the project.

An Orange County project calls for planting of trees, shrubbery and ground cover along portions of the Santa Ana Freeway (Interstate 5) between the Santa Ana River in Santa Ana and a point just south of Santa Ana St. in Anaheim.

Planting will consist of 219 trees (mainly jacaranda), 1,780 shrubbery plants (primarily myoporum), and 2,025 horten-tot fig as ground cover.

Bids will be opened May 17 in Los Angeles. Approximately $305,000 is available for the project, including $3,500 being paid by the City of Anaheim.

Under the remaining project, also in Orange County, guardrail will be constructed at the following locations:

The Santa Ana Freeway (Interstate 5) at its interchange with the Garden Grove (Route 22) and future Orange (Route 57) freeways.

The Garden Grove Freeway from its interchange with the San Diego Freeway (Interstate 405) to its interchange with Route 55 near Orange, a distance of 12.5 miles.

Bids will be opened May 17 in Los Angeles. About $155,000 is available.

FOREIGN POLICY

UCR Sponsors Conference

Senior officers of the Department of State will speak at a foreign policy conference at UCR May 5.

The day-long conference, cosponsored by the Department of State, University of California Extension, Riverside, and the World Affairs Council of Inland Southern California, is one of only six regional conferences to be held in the United States this year by the State Department and the only one of its kind to be held in California.

"Alternatives to Insure Peace" is the main subject of the conference and topics to be discussed include Europe, the Middle East, U.S.-Sino-Soviet relations, narcotics control and terrorism.

Speakers for the day will be Armin Meyer, former ambassador to Japan who is presently Special Assistant to the Secretary of State and Coordinator for Combating Terrorism; Charles Cross, former ambassador to Singapore who is now a member of the Secretary of State's policy planning staff; Ab-

We're not giving away dingos this week.

D is for dingo.

The dingo is the wild dog of Australia. It is believed that they came from Asia with one of the Aborigine invasions as domestic animals and later reverted to their present wild state. These dogs are sometimes caught as pups and kept by the Aborigines for hunting, but as far as the European Australians are concerned dingos are pests, roving in packs and killing sheep and other stock. An indication of its wild condition, the dingo does not bark, but either whines or howls.

FOOD

Low-Cost Meal Tips From Nixon's Consumer Advisory

It was a scene straight out of Julia Child's kitchen. The tv lights bore down on the hot stove while the cook worried aloud that the sauce on her sweet and sour chicken might be getting too lumpy.

In this case the show was on stage in front of a blue velvet curtain in the old Executive Office Building next to the White House. The emphasis was not gourmet at any cost but more Scotsmanlike shopping and cooking as one way to beat the current sky-high food prices.

Presiding at the microphones at this second in a periodic and picturesque series of press briefings was the resilient Mrs. Virginia Knauer, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs. Tending the pot on the stove was a Department of Agriculture home economist, while Harvard's Dr. Jean Mayer, member of the National Consumer Advisory Council, supplied the backup nutritional expertise. Fish and poultry, he stressed, were very bit as nutritious as high-priced red meat and American eaters really need no more of them than the modest portions served up in a typical airline meal.

While national boycott leaders announced from Capitol Hill their continued strategy of meatless Tuesdays and Thursdays, Mrs. Knauer passed out money-saving meal tips and recipes (meat included), free for any consumer's asking from the US Department of Agriculture.

No, she did not approve of boycotts. "Selective shopping" is the term she prefers. However, she willingly concedes that the boycott had "an illuminating effect on those who didn't really think the women of America were as angry as I did. . . They're tired of escalating prices."

As she moves into her second term of office with the Nixon administration, Mrs. Knauer has proved herself an able veteran in the art of political survival.

There were trying days, to be sure, in Pennsylvania during the eight years this grandmother served on the Philadelphia City Council and while director of the state's Bureau of Consumer Protection.

However, they must seem as nothing now compared to the challenge of the job in Washington where the press badgers her almost daily with tough, nonsense questions and such distinguished consumer advocates as Ralph Nader and Rep. Ben Rosenthal (D) of New York have called for her resignation. She terms Mr. Nader's suggestion last summer "misguided" and, if followed, "a kamikaze approach to government which would hardly serve the public interest."

The blond grandmother remains on the aggressive defense for Mr. Nixon's deeds as well as her own, giving him ample praise at every opportunity for all he is doing for the American consumer.

In her "battle plan for saving" on food briefings, Mrs. Knauer consistently leads off the advice with a lengthy prologue, detailing President Nixon's action to combat high meat prices, from imposing ceilings to lifting import restrictions.

When one reporter repeatedly prodded her on the subject of what more was being done by the administration, she refused to rise to the bait. With a most pleasant smile on her face, she said, "I've answered your question -- you just don't want to listen to the answer" and hurried on to the next questioner. Wasn't it a little "insulting" to dispense all this advice to the smart American shopper?

Conceding that some of the tips were "perfectly obvious," Mrs. Knauer quickly claims that, common sense or not, many are not followed. Studies show, she says, that less than half of the housewives trekking to the market, for instance, taking a shopping list, thus subjecting themselves to "impulse" buying. No, she did not feel this was "treading on anyone's toes."

Mrs. Knauer is similarly firm when it comes to the sensitive subject of what is happening to consumerism under the present administration.

Many consumer spokesmen say the White House is effectively downgrading Mrs. Knauer's 52-man Office of Consumer Affairs by shifting it from the Executive Office Building to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Helen Nelson, president of the Consumer Federation of America, calls it a "slap" at the American consumer.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler has explained it as a mere streamlining effort under the President's governmental - reorganization plan. Mrs. Knauer, buoyant as usual, insists the shift means nothing -- that there will be no personnel cuts, no budget cuts (1.8 million has been requested for the office by the President, for fiscal 1974), and no "curtailment" of the issues in which the office will be involved.

CITRUS JUICE:

It's Good For You--But Why?

Everyone knows how good citrus juices taste, and almost everyone knows that they're good for you. But a lot of people still don't know why, researchers for TreeSweet Products Co. have learned.

Do you know why British sailors are called Limeys? That has something to do with one of the reasons why citrus juices are good for you. Back in the middle of the 18th Century, when sailors on long voyages suffered terribly -- and often died -- of scurvy, a British naval surgeon found that citrus juices could prevent the disease, which is caused by a lack of the Vitamin C found in fresh fruits and vegetables. The good doctor had never heard of vitamins, of course, but he found that lime juice--which in those days was what they called lemon juice too -- could prevent and even quickly cure scurvy. From then on, British sailors were given a regular ration of lime juice.

So it is that an eight-ounce glass of orange juice, for example, -- whether fresh, canned or frozen -- will supply the average adult with his daily requirement of Vitamin C.

THE ARTS

USCaleidoscope V Set For April 29

All divisions of the USC School of Performing Arts will be represented at USCaleidoscope V, fifth annual all-university open house, April 29.

The School of Music, Divisions of Drama and Cinema, and the Idyllwild School of Music and the Arts (ISOMATA) will feature exhibits, demonstrations and performances during the seven-hour event beginning at 10 a.m.

Cinema will hold open house all day with tours of the production facilities, plus showings of prize-winning student films.

A drama workshop session is planned at Stop Gap Theatre for 11 a.m., under the direction of Prof. John Blankenship.

Ray Garner, public relations coordinator for ISOMATA, will show movies and slides of the musical, dramatic and arts activities which take place at the USC Idyllwild, Ca. campus.

Music Education has planned a booth where video tapes will be played of the television series, "The Lively Arts," produced by USC in cooperation with KCET, Channel 28. Excerpts from several of these programs featuring USC faculty members and students will be shown.

Several of the noted USC musical organizations will be in evidence, giving short concerts throughout the day. The Trojan Marching Band will have a booth displaying its varied activities and uniforms.

Thomas Somerville will direct the 50-voice Trojan Chorale in a special Bovard Auditorium appearance at 2 p.m.

The Music Preparatory Division, which numbers more than 1000 students starting at age three, will present a demonstration of music and movement with faculty members Andrea Senderov and Trudi Zipper at the USC-YMCA at 1 p.m. Prep division director Nancee Cortes, assisted by Marianne Uzler, Norman Mehr and Edward Davis, will host a program of group piano, musicianship and examples of ensemble playing in Hancock Auditorium at 3 p.m.

The Wind and Percussion department will use its Booth Hall location to demonstrate the versatility of its many chamber groups, including the Brass Ensemble, Woodwind, Saxophone, Percussion and Jazz Ensembles, under the direction of faculty members Robert Marsteller, Mitchell Lurie, Harvey Pittel and Kenneth Watson.

Dedication ceremonies for the new Seeley G. Mudd Communications Building at the School of Theology of Claremont will be held Saturday, April 28.

Addresses will be given by Dr. Landrum R. Bolling of Indianapolis, Ind., executive vice president of the Lilly Endowment Inc., and by Dr. William F. Fore of New York City, executive director of the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches.

The ceremonies also will include the presentation of the newly created Claremont Awards For Excellence in the Arts of Communications to persons who have made outstanding contributions in the fields of journalism, radio and television, and the performing arts.

The Seeley G. Mudd Communications Building was funded by a $1 million grant from the Seeley G. Mudd Fund of Los Angeles. An additional pledge of $300,000 from a southern California benefactor made possible the purchase of communications equipment.

The two-story building includes a 462-seat auditorium, laboratories for recording, film editing and speech training, and a fully-equipped television studio and control room for videotaping of instructional and preaching techniques.

Classes taught in the building are film studies, drama, music, religious communications, worship and preaching. The building is also used for convocations, workshops, film showings and theatrical and musical events -- both secular and religious.

Architect for the Mudd Building was Edward Durrell Stone.

The Seeley G. Mudd Fund was established by the will of Dr. Seeley G. Mudd, a noted physician and philanthropist. Dr. Mudd's will provided for the distribution of the Fund's assets for the construction of buildings bearing his name -- a practice he did not permit during his lifetime -- on campuses of leading colleges and universities across the nation. The School of Theology at Claremont was recipient of the Fund's first grant.

A graduate of Harvard University School of Medicine, Dr. Mudd later became Dean of the University of Southern California School of Medicine and a research scientist at the California Institute of Technology. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the University of Southern California for 42 years, serving as vice chairman of the Board for 32 years.

Ceremonies will begin at noon with a luncheon for guests at the Pavilion at Griswold's Restaurant, Claremont. Dr. William F. Fore is scheduled to speak on the future role of communications in the Church. School of Theology President Dr. Gordon E. Michelson then will present the Claremont Awards for Excellence in the Arts of Communication. The Awards, to be given annually, signify the commitment of the School of Theology to research, experimentation and development of effective ways of communicating the Gospel to society.

Following the luncheon the program will resume in the Mudd Building. Dr. Landrum R. Bolling will speak on "Why Aren't We Communicating? And Can We?" Presentation of the Mudd Building to the School of Theology at Claremont will then be made by Dr. Carl M. Franklin, Vice President of the University of Southern California and a Trustee of the Seeley G. Mudd Fund.

The program in the Mudd Building, beginning at 3 p.m., is open to the general public.

Before recently assuming his position as executive vice president of the Lilly Endowment Inc., Dr. Bolling was President of Earlham College, Richmond, Ind. for 15 years. He had previously taught political science at Earlham and pursued a career as a journalist. He holds the B.A. degree from the University of Tennessee, the M.A. from the University of Chicago, and the LL.D. from Valparaiso University. The Lilly Endowment Inc., is the third largest private foundation in the United States.

Dr. Fore was named executive director of the Broadcasting and Film Commission of the National Council of Churches in 1964.

Jewish Art Subject Of UCLA Series

From the lands of the earliest Jews, archeologists have surfaced such startling discoveries as synagogues with murals and floor mosaics displaying the nude human form, images of gods and goddesses and symbols of pagan cults and cultures. The little known tradition of medieval Jewish manuscripts reveals the divine and the droll of the worshipful and the whimsical among its artists.

In the light of the latest archeological finds, art in the Jewish tradition will be traced from the Biblical period to the 20th century schools of Paris at a new UCLA Extension series of six illustrated lectures titled "Masterworks in the Art of the Jews," Wednesdays, May 9 to June 13, 7 to 10 p.m., in Room 147 Social Welfare Building on the UCLA campus.

The series will be conducted by Dr. Will Kramer, noted scholar, teacher, journalist and radio and television personality. He will explore the Yin, Yang and the Star of David.

Cavs Take Consolation

Montclair High took consolation honors in the 38th Annual Pomona High-Elks Invitational Baseball Tournament by taking Ganesha, 4-3.

Montclair's Dan Jones received the pitching victory from Ganesha's Bob Chaulk in the contest.

Chaulk started off on the right foot by fanning the first two batters he faced and getting clean-up hitter Dale Biggs to bounce back to the box.

Ganesha teammates backed him up by scoring the first run of the game in the bottom of the first frame when Jack Devers tripled and Roger Slayton singled him home with one out.

Montclair decided to go to work on Chaulk, then, in the second inning when Larry Phillips singled to start off the frame, Jones successfully sacrifice bunted Phillips to second and Huggans drove in the Cavalier's first tally by singling to right one out later.

Both pitchers then settled down, allowing only one hit in the next three innings. Chaulk retired nine Cavs in a row, while Jones put down 11 of the 13 Giants, walking one and hitting another.

When Montclair came up in the top half of the sixth, Mike Pittman started a three run rally by singling to left. Biggs reached first and advanced Pittman to second when Ganesha third baseman Paul Madrigal booted a ground ball. Phillips promptly bunted to load the bases with no outs, but Jones' grounder to first base forced Pittman at the plate for the first out.

With the bases still loaded, Steve Stenoski punched a ground ball behind the mound, but Giant shortstop Earl Wilson was unable to stop Biggs at the plate and Montclair had the lead.

Huggans immediately doubled to drive in the two runs, deciding the victory.

Ganesha tried to pull it out in the bottom of the sixth when Devers rapped a double off third baseman Mike Wolters' outstretched glove to start off the inning. One out later, Cleve Porter cashed in Devers with a single to right and Earl Wilson plated Porter with a single to right after Porter moved to second on a passed ball.

Jones then fanned two of the last three Giants he faced to give the Cavs the win.

Montclair started off the tournament by falling to Pacific, 4-3, in the first round. They came back to stun Charter Oak, 10-4.

The second day, the Cavs defeated Royal Oak, 7-1, in the quarterfinals and then blanked Chino, 4-0, in the semis.

Pitching was the key to Montclair's win over the Royals, as converted infielder Don Outlaw hurled a three-hitter and didn't allow an earned run.

Outlaw was backed up by a six-run third inning which saw the Cavs rip five singles. Steve Stenoski went three-for-three at the plate, while Pat Proulx batted two-for-four.

In the 4-0 triumph over Chino, Bruce Richardson took the mound

Mt. SAC Relays Set For This Weekend In Walnut

The Mt. San Antonio Relays this year has been said to be the greatest field of international track and field stars since the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

The three day track and field spectacular will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Walnut at Mt. San Antonio College's Memorial Stadium. Reserved seat tickets are still on sale and can be ordered by calling the college at (714) 595-2211. Tickets for remaining reserved seats and general admission will be available at the gate.

The meet will begin Friday at 9 a.m., running throughout the day with colleges, junior colleges and high schools competing. Saturday, all divisions will be competing in the top seeded events along with the open and invitational events. Saturday's invitational action will start at noon.

Sunday, the meet will feature the women's and master's competition. An annual event at the relays for both Saturday and Sunday is the decathlon. This year's decathlon field may be the best in the history of the relays with many members of the West German national decathlon team competing.

Friday's events run from 9 a.m. to 8:50 p.m., Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Sunday from 8:30 a.m. until 2:15 p.m.

One of the featured events Saturday will be the shot put battle between Al Feuerbach and George Woods. Both men could easily throw over 70 feet at the relays in a shot put ring that has been the scene of great throws in the past from Dallas Long, Randy Matson and Bill Nieder.

The field events and spring relays will both be highlights of Saturday's invitational division. Other field events battles besides the shot put will be javelin with Bill Schmidt and Fred Luke, the pole vault with Bob Richards and Kjell Isaksson and the discus with Jay Silvester, John Powell and Tim Vollmer.

The sprint relays will feature teams from the San Diego Track Club with Steve and Harold Williams, California International, Southern California Striders, East Los Angeles Track Club and the Bay Area Striders. College and university teams include Arizona State, University of Texas at El Paso, Arizona, Stanford, California and Cal Poly, Pomona. The West German national team will also have an entry in the sprint relays.

One of the top individual races of the day will be the 220 yard dash with Willie Deckard, Chuck Smith, Willie Turner, Leon Brown and Lorenzo Russel. An added entry will be Manfred Omer, the 1972 West German national champion in the 100 (10.2) and 200 (20.5).

The high school competition could see two national prep records in the four mile and two mile relays.

CONSOLATION HONORS -- Montclair's Dan Jones' bunt sent Larry Phillips to second in second inning action against Ganesha. Huggans later pushed Phillips in for the first score of an eventual 4-3 victory over Ganesha. The Cavs took four straight games after an initial loss to Pacific, 4-3.

Chaffey Is First In JC Relays

Chaffey College took first and Mt. San Antonio placed second in track competition with 32 junior colleges in the 20th Annual Southern California Relays, held at five different schools last week.

Chaffey won Division III with 69-1/2 points, the nearest competitor being Harbor with 59 points. Citrus, in the same division, was a distant sixth with 29. Santa Ana amounted four points during the entire afternoon.

Chaffey made its presence known as the Panthers won their division with several standout performances. They won the mile relay in 3:15.9 minutes, with Ted Troia, Dave Alexander, Mark Wagner and Roger Reed sharing the baton.

The same foursome came back to win the 880 relay with a clocking of 1:29.2 minutes. Their four-mile relay team established a school record of 17:52.4, while Phil Courtney recorded a school best in the two-mile with a 9:36.8 performance.

The Panthers' Tony Lewis won the high jump with a leap of 6-4 and placed second in the triple jump, soaring 46-3.

Citrus, on the other hand, did not fare as well as the Owls, relying heavily on the duo of Dennis Garrity and Larry Monroe.

Garrity tossed the spear 206-7 for a first place, while Monroe long jumped 22-11 to place second.

Fire Fighter Started

Following completion of highly successful field tests, conducted in rugged terrain near Reno, Nevada, Lockheed Aircraft Service Company recently announced production of its FireStar fire-fighting unit.

The FireStar is a patented, completely self-contained unit, mounted on an unmodified military truck, that will be used to combat fires in areas inaccessible to ordinary fire engines. Installation of the unit can be accomplished in minutes and requires no modifications to the truck.

In announcing start of production, LAS President C. T. Thum said, "FireStar will be an important asset to those charged with the responsibility of controlling wildland fires. Our Vehicle Department began investigating methods to control wildland fires as a result of the uncontrolled forest fires in California two years ago. These fires resulted in 600,000 acres of burned timberland at a cost of 16 lives and $233 million damages."

To confirm the engineering design of FireStar, LAS conducted a 1,000-mile accelerated test of the complete system. A 204-mile fully instrumented test, which included extensive cross-country operation with 500 and 1,000-gallon water loads, was conducted by an independent vehicle testing organization, Data-Motive Inc., Reno, Nev.

Results of the test program were incorporated into the final production design, along with recommendations of the U. S. Forest Service, numerous state and county agencies, city and rural fire departments.

"We had no doubts as to the capabilities of the truck," said Robert W. Forsyth, who supervised the design and testing of the FireStar. "We used a surplus military truck, the same type that has been used by the U. S. Army for many years."

"However, we had to prove that carrying 1,000 gallons of water and equipment imposed no restrictions on its off-road mobility."

Combining the FireStar unit with military cargo trucks which are available at no cost to local fire-fighting agencies through various federal aid programs, it is now possible to obtain off-road mobility not currently available from conventional metropolitan fire apparatus, Forsyth explained.

Price of the FireStar unit is $7,450, about 20 percent of that of a commercial, custom-manufactured, all-wheel-drive fire truck. The first production unit is scheduled for completion this June at the LAS Ontario plant. Mounted on a standard military truck, the FireStar unit is fitted with motion restraints and incorporates its own pumper fuel supply, electrical power, working lights, service platform, and equipment storage provisions.

The 1,000 gallon tank is connected to an engine-driven pump with a delivery capability of from 70 to 120 gallons per minute. The simple piping system permits water to be pumped directly from the tank to the fire, or it can bypass the tank and pump water directly from existing sources such as streams, rivers or lakes. The FireStar tank can be refilled in a matter of minutes using its own pump.

Controls to operate the system are similar to conventional firefighting apparatus, thereby eliminating any requirement for special training. These controls are grouped with the necessary gauges and valving in an easily accessible location at the rear of the unit.

FireStar is the latest in a series of products designed and developed by the LAS Vehicle Department. Terrastar, a commercial and recreational amphibious vehicle designed by LAS, is being developed under license to a Texas firm.

How To Make Your Doorway Attractive

Does your entrance planting say "welcome?" Is it easy to care for, and does it harmonize with the style of your house?

Does it express your individuality while yet fitting into the general tone of the neighborhood? Does it make your house look contented in its setting, gracious, homelike as if it belongs where it is?

It is a good idea once in a while to take a special look to see if the front area and its entrance measure up or can be improved. You might hop into the car, drive off a bit, then come at your home from each approach. Again, take a walk and see how it looks from various places, including across the street. You may be so used to coming home or going out, that you haven't really looked at the planting and its design for quite a while.

Study other homes in the neighborhood that seem well planted. Is the planting to scale? Does it bring out the good lines of the house? How does it lead the eye to the doorway?

If your house is older, and was landscaped originally, the entrance shrubbery may be all right as is. Chances are, though, that it may need trimming. Arborvitae at the corners have a way of growing tall. Cutting off the top can be done if not too drastic. They will fill out during the summer.

Hemlocks can be kept the height and shape you need. Your corner planting should be kept to harmonize with the lower planting along the front of the house.

Yews can get leggy. Trim back the green ends. They will branch out. Mugho pine is trimmed at the terminal buds. Dead wood of deciduous shrubs and spent blooms of rhododendrons should be trimmed out. Spring-flowering deciduous shrubs can be shaped after blooming. Summer-flowering shrubs in the autumn.

Light trimming each year is the only way to keep foundation planting in shape. If old planting has grown up in front of front windows you may need to replace it with new low-growing shrubs you can keep trimmed. Focus on entrance.

Doorway planting should focus the attention on the entrance. To do this the taller shrubs are usually planted at the corners of the house and the lower ones at either side of the doorway or front steps. Beneath the windows the planting should be low.

If the house sits high on its foundation or has a front porch that sits high with steps to the front entrance, vines such as hardy English ivy (Hedera helix) or winter creeper (Euonymus radicans) can be planted on the foundation.

Corner plantings (a taller accent combined with one or two shrubs on each side) should curve down to the ground. Evergreens and deciduous shrubs can be combined to give variety in texture yet look well (in the North) in winter.

Round, formal ball-like and pyramidal evergreens should be used sparingly and only in combination with more naturalistic shrubs to blend them in with the house and the surrounding property. Though slow-growing they need yearly pruning to keep within bounds.

Curves ease the eye

Curved lines of the planting bed will relieve the eye, especially in contrast to straight driveways and straight entrance walks. A low, wide frontage planted with a straight fringe of identical evergreens can be monotonous, even humorous.

A curved foundation bed, the space among shrubs filled with an evergreen ground cover like pachysandra or vinca will relieve the straight architectural lines of the house and the level of the lawn.

Here are a few dos and don'ts from various landscape architects and nurserymen that may prove useful guidelines in checking and planning your doorway planting:

--Simplicity should be the keynote of planting the public area of your home grounds. Not a lot of fussy planting. The American tradition is also not to use this for a flower garden. The exception is the Cape Cod Cottage doorway picket-fenced-in area.

--Planting should emphasize the lines of the house and be in scale -- high, low, spready, modern, traditional, etc., and also be in tune with the neighborhood customs.

The driveway entrance should be easy to see (not hidden by shrubbery) and family and guests should be able to get from the car to the front door without walking on the grass. A joining walk from the driveway should harmonize in material with drive and front walk.

--Plantings flanking the doorway should not have thorns or brush against the person entering the house.

--If the front area is on a slope, have it graded so it is level near the entrance, with a low set of steps, possibly a low retaining wall, and plant the slope or along the wall with low shrubbery and ground cover.

--Small islands between driveway and house or around trees should be planted with ground cover. Larger ones can have a small tree and low shrubbery, linking it mentally to the foundation planting.

Innovations Nothing New At Home-Flower Show

Innovations are nothing new for the annual Southern California Home and Flower Show scheduled in the Los Angeles Convention Center, May 4-13, but a decision to add 24,360 sq. ft. of exhibit space just a month prior to opening is most unusual.

Producer Virginia Wood announces that Hall C "The Petrie Room," directly across from the Center's huge main exposition area will be occupied by the Artist's and Craftsmen's Marketplace.

Superior and unique handcrafted wares, varied and unusual creations and products and works of art in many forms will be exhibited in colorful profusion by their artisan-owners. Stoneware, stained glass, metal sculpture, leather work, glass blowing, weavings, ceramics and a host of other creations will be displayed and sold.

Marketplace entrepreneur Steve Scott of Van Nuys reports that he had little trouble convincing Miss Wood of the added interest and service the Hall C project would provide the thousands of visitors to the Home Show.

Learn About Practical Home Vegetable Gardening

A good garden contributes to the well-being of the family by supplying foods that might not otherwise be provided. Besides providing wholesome food, vegetable gardening is an interesting hobby in which the whole family can participate in the planning, planting, cultivating and harvesting. Gardening also provides healthful outdoor exercise, offers productive activity for handicapped or disabled persons and is an excellent way to teach children about growth and reproduction.

All forms of gardening -- vegetable, flower, fruit, landscaping -- are fascinating pursuits which will be valuable to a young person all his life. Many homes have available space for a garden and more parents may want to encourage their children's interest in some phase of gardening.

Successful gardens do not just happen. A practical guide is available to you from The Pennsylvania State University's correspondence course office. Titled, Home Vegetable Gardening, the course includes ideal planting dates for various vegetables, spaces between rows, amount of seed needed for so many feet of row, kinds of fertilizers and rates to use, and how to control insects and diseases.

ON THE ROCKS

Creating A Mini-Landscape

Contemporary interest in organic and in natural materials reflects itself in many ways, especially plant materials. The so-called "return to Nature" manifests itself in unprecedented interest in plants for indoor and garden use.

Today, besides bringing nature indoors, many homeowners create new, mini-landscapes within their existing gardens -- for a private, relaxing retreat. Or, install a second patio as a micro-environment for the family's pleasure, beautifying it with lush greenery for privacy. The secluded garden off the master bedroom and bath is another extension of the relationship between man and nature.

Residents of mobile homes and condominium dwellers, who often garden in limited space, are happily aware that there is no lack of shrubs, ground covers, and flowers which lend themselves to mini-landscapes.

A noticeable trend today, according to the California Association of Nurserymen is the use of rock in such small gardens. An interestingly-shaped rock, with a few plants judiciously selected and planted, reflects a natural setting -- as you would expect to find in the foothills or in a meadow.

It requires little garden space, for instance, to place a low, protruding rock and tuck-in a few mounds of Alyssum in the foreground, with a compact, feathery Heavenly Bamboo, planted behind the rock as you view it. Complete the scene with Potentilla, a bright green and carpet-like ground cover.

Plants with unique characteristics, and focal interest, include Fortnight Lily (Moraea), Lily of the Nile -- especially the dwarf Peter Pan Agapanthus, Scotch Heather, and several forms of Mahonia (Oregon Grape). Nurserymen have a host of low-spreading Junipers -- in shades of green, silver and blue -- which are standouts in such settings.

New Zealand Flax, Yuccas and Agaves are go-togethers with rock, as are various Cactus and Succulents. If frost is a problem, rely on the dwarf forms of Holly, Veronica, Mugho or Japanese Black Pine.

Certain Ice Plant and Sedum varieties make attractive covers in and around rock. Mounds of Gazanias offer splashes of color -- yellow, red, burgundy, orange, and white -- or Irish or Scotch Moss.

Plant A Tree--Living Gift For Mother's Day

It's a rare Mother, today, who isn't interested in living greenery. And, whether it is a foliage plant for indoor enjoyment, or a longed-for tree or shrub for her garden, a living gift plant is sure to please on Mother's Day, May 13.

From a practical standpoint, it's likely that she has been talking about planting a tree to provide shade and relief from the hot summer afternoon sun. Mother's Day is an excellent time to do something about it -- instead of keeping on talking about planting a tree, into next winter. Can you imagine her delight? Or, if she's presented that talked-about tubbed dwarf citrus to display on the porch, you can imagine the reception the gift -- and the giver -- would receive.

Indoor foliage plants add dramatic beauty to their surroundings, and highlight furnishings while serving as unique decorations. Perhaps this is the year that Mom gets that Fiddle Leaf Fig, or the Boston Fern she's been wanting. Such items as a terrarium, or a hanging basket-type plant in an unusual container, are as beautiful as they are utilitarian. Can you imagine more impressive indoor accessories -- which are certain to draw admiring glances and comments?

Mothers who enjoy cooking gourmet meals would thrill to receiving a gift selection of herbs. Nurseries have small containers of herb plants; you can re-plant them in decorative pots to enjoy up close, while she grows her own seasonings.

Shopping and browsing at a nearby nursery will reveal countless gift possibilities. Roses are in bloom in nursery containers; azaleas, rhododendrons and camellias are to be found in flower, and this is an excellent time for planting. You'll also find blooming annual flowers, which are in nursery pots, and which will continue to provide color through the warm season. Grow these in containers at the entryway. What cheerier sight than bright summer flowers to greet visitors and guests?

Such traditional and sure-to-please favorites as hydrangeas, chrysanthemums, gladiolus and African violets are in full bloom and never fail to bring smiles of satisfaction and appreciation.

Rhododendrons Highlight To Any Garden

As the month of May is ushered-in, more and more Rhododendrons highlight the garden scene with their spectacular floral display. The profuse-blooming plants are becoming fixtures in California-style landscapes--serving as property dividers, hedges, hillside covers and adding their distinctive beauty to foundation plantings near the home--and doubling as striking specimen plants in tubs.

Whatever the use--or shape, size or variety--now is an excellent time to set-out these lovely landscape performers, says the California Association of Nurserymen.

How to plant Rhododendrons will depend upon local climates, and the garden situation. In Southern California, and not interior valleys, Rhododendrons are available in increasing numbers, and the varieties offered are those which will acclimate best to local conditions.

In tubs, or distinctive containers, Rhododendrons are beautiful conversation pieces and serve as elegant accessories on the porch or patio.

Gardener's Checklist

1. Hurry to plant Dahlia and Gladiolus bulbs; nurseries still have a good selection of colors from which to choose of these summertime favorites.
2. When transplanting your annuals from nursery flats, into the garden, let them get a good start. Then pinch-back the plants to encourage side branching -- and additional bloom.
3. Yellowed leaves on Camellias, Gardenias, and other shrubs -- or defoliated Citrus -- often indicate iron chlorosis. This is another way of saying the plants need iron. Best and surest way to supply it is with one of the chelating compounds (pronounced key-lay-ting), which hold the iron in suspension until it is absorbed by the roots.
4. Dwarf Marigolds provide a summer-long show of color in border plantings -- and are ideal for edging purposes.
5. Looking for Mother's Day gift ideas? Browse through your nearby nursery -- you'll find many plants in full bloom (Roses, Camellias, Azaleas, Rhododendrons to name a few) which will delight her.

GARDEN HIGHLIGHT -- Blooming rhododendrons highlight the garden scene in elegant fashion. A way to showcase their beauty up-close is to grow rhododendrons in tubs. Featured in containers, the handsome textured foliage and seasonal color add a delightful dimension to the porch, patio or entryway -- or wherever the popular plants are displayed.

Mormon Church Dedicated

The culmination of five years of extensive planning, construction and collection of funds will take place Sunday, April 29, at 7 p.m., when the new Pomona Stake Center of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), 2645 Amberst St., La Verne, will be dedicated.

Elder Paul H. Dunn, Salt Lake City, a member of the First Council of the Seventy, will deliver the dedicatory address and prayer.

The new church is a single story structure on a five acre site and covers 26,000 square feet. The chapel will seat 450 people. There are twenty six classrooms, five offices, cultural hall, stage, baptismal font, and kitchen.

Within the cultural hall is a regulation basketball court. The building is designed so that by opening large sliding doors between the chapel and cultural hall congregations up to 1800 people are in view of the pulpit. The Church maintains an aggressive building program throughout the world to accommodate the needs of a rapidly expanding church membership. Stake President Robert L. McCook reports that the local share of the building was 30 percent -- $252,000 -- of the $840,000 figure. The local money was raised by cash contributions and projects. The Mormon church based in Salt Lake has contributed the remaining seventy percent.

The money from Utah came from the Mormon general fund which is collected from tithes paid by church members.

An unusual and somewhat interesting aspect of this program is that all buildings are paid for before they are dedicated.

The major geographical subdivisions of the church are designated as Stakes. A Stake comprises several wards, or fully organized congregations. The Pomona Stake was formed in 1972, by a division of the Upland Stake. There are more than 3200 members in the new Pomona Stake. The beautiful new edifice will house the La Verne and Claremont Wards in addition to being the meeting place for all stake events.

The architect was Otto Korver of Los Angeles. The contractor was Wade Construction of Northridge. The landscaping and sprinkling system was done by donated labor from local members.

The Church has no professional clergy. Lay members are chosen as regional and local officers and receive no monetary compensation for their services.

The Pomona Stake Presidency consists of: President, Robert L. McCook; First Counselor, Kenneth H. Anderson; Second Counselor, Allen C. Christensen.

The La Verne Ward Bishopric: Bishop H. Earl Thomas; First Counselor, Richard Graff; Second Counselor, Nathan Smith.

The Claremont Ward Bishopric: Bishop, L. Ned Miller; First Counselor, John C. Brown, Second Counselor, William Jeuschke.

The public is invited to an open house with tours of the building from 5-7 Friday evening, April 27 and noon to 8 p.m., Saturday, April 28.

POMONA STAKE CENTER

UCLA To Sponsor Extension Lectures

A number of celebrated figures including philosopher and author, Dr. Herbert Marcuse will appear as guest speakers on a new UCLA Extension lecture series "Consciousness and Reality: Explorations in Ways of Seeing" beginning April 3 at UCLA.

The series, which examines the social and psychological blocks that prevent individuals from gaining empathy needed in the search for understanding, meets nine Tuesdays from 7-10 p.m. in Dickson Art Center.

"Any two observers differ in the way they experience or perceive the same events," says coordinator Dr. Terry Kupers, fellow in community psychiatry at the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute. He clarifies this by saying that when people are of different classes, races, cultures or generations, their perceptions can be markedly at odds when one is labeled "mad" and the other "sane." Controversies over basic issues such as war, race, democracy, justice, mental illness and the generation gap all center on the important question of "what is reality and what is truth."

In the initial lecture Dr. Kupers will discuss reflection, distortion and truth. Subsequent sessions and their speakers: April 10, "Ideology and Consciousness," Dr. Richard Lichtman, ASUCB professor of social philosophy; April 17, "The Unconscious Influence of Consciousness," Dr. Roger Gould, assistant clinical professor in psychiatry at the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute; April 24, "Ideology and the Unconscious," Dr. Herbert Marcuse; May 1, "Emotion, Mental Illness and Reality," Dr. Thomas Scheff, professor of sociology at the University of California in Santa Barbara; May 8, "Reality in Black and White," Dr. Frank Price, assistant professor of psychology at UCLA and author of "The Black Child-Psychosocial Issues"; May 15, "The Worlds of Infancy and Schizophrenia," Dr. James Gortstein, assistant clinical professor of psychiatry at UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute; May 22, "The Reality of Politics and the Politics of Reality," Dorothy Healey, Communist activist and radio commentator; May 29, "Consciousness as Science," Dr. Terry Kupers.

Fees are $40 for the non-credit course and $55 for the credit course (3 units). For more information, write to P. O. Box 24902, Social Sciences Department, UCLA Extension, Los Angeles, CA 90024, or call (213) 825-7305.

3,654 Volunteers Hours Donated

For the past three months 200 Pomona Valley and San Gabriel residents have been involved in one of the United Way's most important tasks, performing the stewardship of monies raised in the recent United Crusade campaign.

Under the leadership of Hewes A. Bell, vice president and general manager of Pacific Telephone in North Area, more than 3,654 volunteer man-hours have been devoted to the United Way budgeting process.

As Budget Study Chairman, Bell heads this group of dedicated volunteers representative of the total community who meet with the 75 United Way agencies budgeted in the Pomona Valley and San Gabriel Valley region to hear their program and budget presentations.

From these presentations and subsequent division meetings, the allocations for these agencies will be determined by the end of June.

As a result of the recent merger of the Community Planning Council with United Way, this year's budget volunteers had planning information at their disposal to assist in their determinations.

The agencies within this region fall into four broad divisions, these are Health, Child Welfare, Counseling and Community Coordinating Services and Youth Services. Within each division there are from two to four budget panels dependent upon the number of agencies within the division. Each budget panel consists of approximately 15 volunteers and hears the program and budget presentations of approximately five agencies each.

The Health Division is headed by Walter H. Laband of WHL Corp. in Covina and his vice chairman is Albert Hernandez, area representative, Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO with Mrs. Harold Gertmanian of Pasadena as the planning representative for that division.

The Child Welfare division is chaired by James Macneil, executive vice president, Title Insurance and Trust Co. with Mrs. Edith Bogen of Pasadena as planning representative.

Paul Johansing, vice president, Cass & Johansing, chairs the Counseling and Community Coordinating Services division with Dr. James Bell, vice president, California State Polytechnic University as vice chairman. Mrs. John Shenk of Pasadena serves as planning representative.

The Youth Division is headed up by Vincent F. Martin, district manager of Southern California Edison Co., Pomona. Mrs. Ellison Smith of Pomona is vice chairman and the planning representative is Mrs. James Ford of Monrovia.

Panel chairmen and vice chairmen serving in the Health division are Mrs. Sibyl Roth of Altadena, chairman and Charles Cherniss, editor of the Pasadena Star News, vice chairman, Joseph B. Earl, president of the O. K. Earl Corp., chairman and Dr. James Johnson, superintendent, Bonita United School District, vice chairman.

In the Child Welfare division the panel chairmen and vice chairmen are Fred Felberg, assistant laboratory director, Jet Propulsion Laboratory, chairman and Mrs. John Matthiessen, Pasadena, vice chairman; Jerry Holland, superintendent, Baldwin Park Unified School District, chairman and Mrs. Sanford Newton of Pomona, president, Everett Charles, Pomona, chairman and Delos Comstock, M.D., San Marino.

The Counseling and Coordinating Council Services division has the following chairmen and vice chairmen: E. Howard Brooks, Provost, Claremont Colleges, chairman, Judge John Saunders of Monrovia, chairman and Jim Soden of the California Teachers Ass'n, West Covina as vice chairman; Dr. William Berck, superintendent, San Gabriel Schools, chairman and Ira Van Valkenburgh, business representative, Retail Clerks Union Local 1428, Pomona is vice chairman and Virgil Waters, Industries Manufacturing Council, City of Industry, chairman.

Book Offered On How To Sell Your Home

Saving money is the name of the game. Right? And California homeowners have the opportunity of doing just that with the new Greenleaf Classics book, "How To Sell Your Home In California Without A Broker."

The book offers homeowners a simple, clear path to follow in selling their own homes and, in the process, saving $500 to $2,000 in brokers' fees on the average priced home.

Lawrence Kapiloff and Wayne Watkins, coauthors of the informative book, have given owners the ability to handle competently their own sale; through appraisal, negotiations, methods of financing, escrow, close of sale and reinvestment.

They have even included all the necessary legal forms so they can be detached, including, easy, step by step instructions on how to fill them out. The book is so complete it also includes information on how to complete a contract of sale. Also included is a section on Homesteading with the necessary detachable forms.

The authors' aim is to allow homeowners to eliminate brokers' fees, if they so desire, but it is also considered an excellent reference book for those selling their homes through brokers, inasmuch as it enables the sellers to follow each step of the complicated procedure.

Initial response from brokers was critical but, after reading the book, many remarked on its attention to detail and are using the book as a selling tool for their companies.

Kapiloff and Watkins are experts in the field and spent considerable research time prior to writing the book. Kapiloff was recently elected to the California State Assembly from a San Diego district and is considered one of the state's foremost experts in the field of property taxation. He earned his law degree at UCLA and was a Deputy County Counsel in San Diego County for more than 10 years before he entered the Assembly.

Watkins has had extensive schooling in real estate and currently serves as budget analyst for the Chief Administrative Office of San Diego County.

Antique Show To Be Held In L.A.

The oldest and most prestigious Antiques Show and Sale in the West, the Hollywood Palladium Antiques Show, will again open its doors today through Sunday at 6215 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood. Dealers from throughout the area and from around the nation will bring together their displays of fine antiques in a beautiful setting created especially for the event by Harris et Cie., show producers.

The newest vogue in "antiques" -- collectible items less than 100 years of age, but of real value because of their craftsmanship, scarcity and the fact that they are no longer manufactured -- will be shown by many of the more than 60 dealers.

The Hollywood Palladium Antiques Show is noted for bringing together probably the finest collection of antiques and collectibles of any show presented in Southern California. Dealers always vie to show a better collection than their neighbors.

Show hours will be 1 to 10 p.m. daily, and 1 to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $2 for adults with children under 12 admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Harris et Cie., the show producers, present approximately nine shows per year in California in which the finest of antiques always are on display. Mr. Harris carefully screens all dealers prior to allowing them to exhibit in his shows. This presents for the public the best possible display of fine merchandise, all under one roof in convenient position for viewing with an eye toward buying for investment or decoration.

New Professor Named

Dr. David Griffin of Dayton, Ohio, has been named Assistant Professor of Philosophy of Religion on the faculty of the School of Theology at Claremont.

Dr. Griffin, to assume his new position in September, comes to the School of Theology from the University of Dayton, where he has served in the Department of Theological Studies for the past five years.

In making the announcement, School of Theology at Claremont President Dr. Gordon E. Michelson said, "Dr. Griffin brings a mature grasp of process philosophy and a Christian concern for clarifying theological expression into the theological discussion at a point in Church history when a great need exists for the Church to be reminded that authentic Christian experience depends upon authentic Christian ideas."

STC Dean F. Thomas Trotter said that Dr. Griffin was one of the "outstanding young philosophical-theologians" in the Church today. "He will bring to the School of Theology a particular interest in relating the process philosophy of Alfred North Whitehead to the task of theology," Dr. Trotter said.

In addition to his teaching, Dr. Griffin will work closely with Prof. John B. Cobb Jr., Ingraham Memorial Professor of Theology, in developing a center for research, consultation and publication in the philosophy of religion.

The journal Process Studies, interdisciplinary seminars and other programs will be features of the center.

Dr. Griffin, 33, is chairman of the Philosophy of Religion and Theology Section of the American Academy of Religion. He is also a member of the Faith-Man-Nature Group, the Society for the Study of Process Philosophy and the Association of Disciplines for Theological Discussion.

Dr. Griffin has published numerous articles on process philosophy in religious and philosophical journals. A book, Process Christology, will be published by Westminster Press this fall. He also is co-editing a book on the theology of Dr. John Cobb, to be published in 1974.

Dr. Griffin holds the B.A. degree from Northwest Christian College, the M.A. from the University of Oregon, and the Ph.D. from Claremont Graduate School.

A combined committee of students, staff and faculty are planning the 32nd annual PolyVue open house at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona May 10-13.

With this year's theme "POLYRAMA - An Offer You Can't Refuse," the 1973 PolyVue is expected to draw 20,000 persons to the campus daily. The four-day program will include a national intercollegiate rodeo, an open blue ribbon horse show, a soap box grand prix, carnival and dance, pancake breakfast, barbecue and guided tours of the campus. Booths and exhibits are planned to display new creative ideas fostered within the university community.

John Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLellan of Redlands, and Warren McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood McCoy of Riverside, have been named cochairmen to head the 1973 PolyVue.

Other directors include Bruce E. Finley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Finley, San Dimas, director of campus arrangements; John Rico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don L. Rico, Chino, director of cultural affairs; Debbie Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Wheeler, West Covina, director of special events.

It's Your Money

By PAUL G. LING Assistant

Vice President and Manager CROCKER BANK

Q: We are a new family and I think we should establish a life insurance policy right away. My wife says we can't afford the premiums. What would you advise?

A: You are smart to look into life insurance right at the start. Many young couples believe they cannot afford insurance because of limited finances. But early in a marriage is the time when they can least afford to be without it. If the breadwinner should die or be seriously injured, the spouse is left with no security whatsoever since the couple usually hasn't had time to build up assets. Look first at the programs offered by your company, or any trade, fraternal or professional associations to which you belong. Generally these group policies are the cheapest forms of insurance. If you are checking into commercial insurance companies, you will find guidance in the industry publication, "Best's Recommended Insurance Companies," which is available at most libraries.

Q: Our family doesn't seem to be able to save money. Any suggestions?

A: One of the easiest ways of building savings is to split an increase in income — such as pay raise, bonus or profit sharing — between spending money and savings. Or once you pay off a loan, which already has become a part of your budget, you can continue "paying" a portion of it to your savings account. This psychological method is highly effective because you save before you become accustomed to any extra money. You can arrange with your bank to make automatic fund transfers from your checking to savings account at specific intervals.

FOR S.B. COUNTY

Official Flag Raised

San Bernardino County's first official flag was raised over the County Courthouse Monday when the County observed its 120th Anniversary ceremonies. The flag was officially adopted by resolution earlier in the day when the Board of Supervisors held its regular weekly meeting in tribute to the County's 120-year history.

The flag depicts dark blue mountains against a light blue field with the dark blue arrowhead County emblem, the words "County of San Bernardino," and the year 1853 when the County was established.

In addition to the flag raising, ceremonies included remarks by members of the Board of Supervisors; an appearance by Hollie H. Jolley, descendant of the early Mormons who settled San Bernardino; remarks by historian Walter Schuil-ing, one of the leaders in the development of the County Museum; and the singing of "God Bless America" by Grace Aulry McDonald.

The special ceremony was emceed by Nancy E. Smith, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, and the program was preceded by a concert of popular band music.

Numerous dignitaries, as well as the general public were invited from all parts of San Bernardino County, according to Supervisor Smith.

In 1853 settlers in the area instructed Jefferson Hunt, their first assemblyman, to petition the State Legislature for the establishment of a new jurisdiction separate from Los Angeles County and on April 23 San Bernardino County was created.

Interestingly enough, the County Courthouse is the site of the old Mormon Stockade, one of the first permanent structures built in the area.

"From the original eight officials and three county Supervisors who met in the Mormon Council House," Mrs. Smith noted that, "We have now grown into a county of nearly 6,000 employees, providing a vast range of services not only through our complex of buildings in San Bernardino, but through numerous branch offices located throughout the County."

"In fact, at this juncture in our County's history, we can look with pride to not only being geographically the state's largest county, but also having the seventh greatest population among the 58 counties in California."

The San Bernardino County Courthouse is located at 351 N. Arrowhead Ave., San Bernardino.

Support for the American Medical Association position on acupuncture was forthcoming recently from an official of California's first medically supervised acupuncture clinic.

Echoing the warning recently made by AMA President Elect Dr. Russell B. Roth, Dr. Morton W. Barke, medical director of the West Coast Medical Group Acupuncture Clinic, 8911 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, issued the following statement:

"A rash of 'instant acupuncturists' is beginning to spring up in response to public demand for the benefits of this ancient Oriental system of treatment. Unfortunately, the large majority of these persons, many not even licensed physicians, have little background in acupuncture."

Dr. Barke pointed out that this coterie of doctors and laymen have begun practicing acupuncture without sufficient experience. Some, he contends, are treating patients with only a weekend seminar or two as educational background for preparation.

"Since opening the West Coast Acupuncture

Clinic last year we have treated approximately 4500 patients and are achieving dramatic results. However, as we learn more and more about this foreign practice of medical treatment, we realize the necessity for proper medical supervision and controls," he said.

The physician explained that the West Coast Clinic accepts only patients who have been referred by their own physicians who have concluded that traditional Western medical treatment has failed to bring relief.

"All activities at our clinic are supervised by licensed California physicians working in consultation with Korean specialists who hold degrees in acupuncture in their native land."

"Our staff does not diagnose conditions, but only treats prior existing illnesses for which the patient has already been under the care of a licensed physician," Dr. Barke reported.

While agreeing in principle with the AMA, the medical director cautioned that legitimate facilities such as the West Coast Acupuncture Clinic should be encouraged to not only treat chronic sufferers, but also to conduct much needed research into the reasons why acupuncture works.

Concurrent with the day-to-day treatment of patients, West Coast Acupuncture Clinic has engaged in an in-depth research program, Dr. Barke said, adding that a report on the findings, made by an independent investigator from a major Southern California medical school, is expected to be released shortly.

Federal Director To Speak At College

Ray S. Cline, director of the Bureau of Intelligence and Research, U.S. Department of State, will be featured speaker at the 17th Annual World Affairs Day Saturday, April 28 at Pierce College, Woodland Hills.

Cline will adhere to this year's World Affairs Day theme, "A Generation of Peace? The Nixon Foreign Policy Around the World," when he speaks at 1:30 p.m. in the Pierce College men's gym, 6201 Winnetka Ave. Admission to Cline's talk is free.

The public is also invited to participate in the morning World Affairs Day program from 9 a.m. to noon. Admission to the morning activities, starting at the north end of the campus mall, is $2.

Discussions of foreign policy in Europe, Asia, the Middle East and Latin America will take place in the morning in four panel sessions directed by State Department members.

Panel leaders will be James Sutterlin, director of the Office of Central European Affairs; Roger Sullivan, deputy director of the Office of Asian Communist Affairs; Philip Stoddard, deputy director of the Office of Research and Analysis for the Near East and South Asia, and John Crimmins, deputy assistant secretary of state for Inter-American Affairs.

Following their presentations, panel leaders will be questioned by authorities on world affairs including Hammond Rolph, executive officer of USC's School of International Relations and Politics, and Thomas La Belle, UCLA's coordinator for research on education in Latin America.

Others will be Roger Dingman, USC history professor; Arpad Kardakay, political science professor at Occidental College; John Rodes, Occidental history professor; Malcolm Kerr and Edward Gonzales, both political science professors at UCLA, and Farrel Broslawski, history professor at Valley College, Van Nuys.

Cline has been in his present position since 1969. He became a member of the Central Intelligence Agency in 1949 and served as director of the U. S. Naval Auxiliary Communications Center, Taipei, Taiwan between 1958 and 1962.

He was special adviser at the American Embassy, Bonn, Germany between 1966 and 1969 and was attached to the U.S. delegation at the first "summit" four power heads of state conference in Geneva, Switzerland in 1955.

Cline holds a Ph.D. from Harvard University. The Bureau of Intelligence and Research is responsible for analysis of international affairs and political, economic and sociological trends relevant to American foreign policy.

World Affairs Day, sponsored by the Pierce College Associated Students Organization, is planned under the direction of Dr. Eugene Hinkston, political science professor at the Woodland Hills campus and originator of World Affairs Day in 1957.

Finance Co. Predicts A Good Year

First Charter Financial Corporation expects 1973 to be another successful year of operational gains because of the Company's "outstanding financial position, exciting growth plans and favorable administrative cost ratios," management told shareholders at the annual meeting.

President S. Mark Taper stated: "1972 gross revenues rose to an all-time high of approximately $269 million. This encouraging trend has continued in 1973, reaching $74.5 million for the three months ended March 31."

Taper cited other record achievements in 1972 of First Charter and its affiliate, American Savings and Loan Ass'n, commenting: "The net earnings of $46,555,142 were the highest earnings ever reported by a savings and loan holding company, regardless of size, and for the first time in history a savings and loan association originated over $1 billion in new loans in one year."

As the company's operational gains continued into the first quarter of 1973, Taper said, First Charter's net earnings exceeded $12 million or 50 cents a share -- a 21 percent increase over $9.9 million or 41 cents per share for the year-ago period.

Simultaneously, American Savings set a new high of $206.9 million in first quarter loan originations -- $28.7 million ahead of the first three months of last year. In addition, Taper noted American's net savings increase of $108 million in the first quarter of 1973, following an increase of approximately one-half billion dollars in net savings in 1972.

"American Savings' growth over the past 10 years has come from within from increases in our branch system, our savings deposits, and retention of earnings and expansion of our loan portfolio," commented Taper. So far in 1973, he said, new offices have been added in Huntington Beach and Hollywood, and others to be opened shortly in Costa Mesa, the Wilshire Center section of Los Angeles and San Bruno will expand American's branch system to 61 offices in northern and southern California.

"Management skills are reflected in the continuance of your company's favorable ratio of general and administrative expenses -- which is the lowest in our industry -- and in maintaining our low ratio of scheduled items," Taper concluded.

In other action at the annual meeting, 10 directors were reelected for one year terms.
